It was admitted today by the Austrian war office. The Russians have also gained a crossing of the Dniester at that point. The Austrian commander evacuated the forts northwest of the town to avoid useless losses from the Russian artillery which was carrying out a violent bombardment of the place. The attack on Zusciezko was part of the general drive of the Russians on the southern end of the battle front by which they hope to open up a path through Bukovina.

REED BUSY IN WASHINGTON

Confers With Senator Hollis Regarding Philippine Appointment.

Washington, March 21.—Former Congressman Eugene Reed has arrived here for the purpose of conferring with Senator Hollis and the administration regarding the appointment to the vacant office of commissioner in the Philippines at a salary of $12,500 yearly. Senator Hollis is his sponsor and although the senator and the former congressman have not always worked in the closest harmony in state politics in New Hampshire, there was no evidence of friction when seen together today.

Senator Hollis believes that the President will give Mr. Reed the appointment and he is also "afraid" that Mr. Reed will have to leave for his far away post before the St. Louis convention, which will of course interfere with his serving as a delegate-at-large.

Added significance to Mr. Reed's visit was given by the fact that he was in close conference with Postmaster General Burleson, political mentor of President Wilson, and Fred A. Lynch, committeeman from Minnesota, who is the administration's candidate for chairman of the national committee to succeed William F. McComb.

Mr. Reed said today that he had nothing to say regarding the purpose of his visit to Washington.

The first tea ever drank in Maine was made on Cutts Island, Kittery Point, about 160 years ago. A daughter of Major Cutts was returning from school in Massachusetts with a daughter of Governor Vaughn. A severe storm detained her at Portsmouth several days and at the governor's table she was first offered tea. The young lady followed Madam Vaughn and adding sugar and cream carried it to her lips. She afterward purchased a pound of tea for a guinea, sent to Boston for cups and saucers and thus introduced the first tea set into Maine.

Mrs. Harold Guile is restricted to her home on Water street by illness. The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of Rice avenue was taken quite ill on Monday evening.

Mrs. George Terry and daughter, Miss Ellen Bowden, who have been residing in Keene, N. H., have returned to Kittery and will make their home here in the future. Miss Bowden has resumed her position as teacher of the pianoforte, which she formerly held.

FEEL ALL USED UP?

Lots of Portsmouth People Do.

Does your back ache constantly? Do you have sharp twinges when stooping or lifting? Feel all used up—as if you could just go no farther?

Why not look to your kidneys? Why not use Doan's Kidney Pills? Portsmouth people have done so.

Mrs. G. J. Bridges, 195 Cass St., Portsmouth, says: "Two or three years ago I was caused a great deal of trouble by intense pains in my back across my kidneys. These pains bore down on me like a great weight. I felt all worn-out and little like doing my housework. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Phillips's Pharmacy, and they corrected the trouble. I haven't had to use this medicine now for a long time."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that fairly well with the Glants in 1915.

New York, March 21.—What chance have the New York Glants?

"A fine chance," says John McGraw, "just because the 1916 club finished in the cellar there are a lot of citizens who won't vote for us for the 1916 honors. But we will be in the fight and all the way, this in mind: the team of 1916 no longer exists. I have a new machine that contains some of the best bats of the old one and some new ones that replace those that put the whole works on the blink last year."

John, as you will note from the above is hopeful—very much so. In Gotham the fans are fifty-fifty; some share the optimism of the Glant leader—and the other half doesn't.

So you are to be the jury, in the case of the Glants. All the facts will be put before you and you can decide.

The Glant infield will be the same as it was in 1915, unless McGraw puts through a belated trade for Morde, in which case he may send the youthful Brannan to first base. Larry Doyle, the leading outfielder of the Teneer circuit will be back on second. Doyle, who many guess by his great hitting—but he loses a lot through his weakness on ground balls. Fletcher, a timely hitter and brilliant fielder, will do the shortstopping, with the fading Louis Lohr on third. The German was a great baserunner and a terror with the men once upon a time—but that was long ago.

The makeup of the outfield is a question. The leading candidates are Benny Hunt, the "Shinking Violet"; George Burns, ranked as one of the stellar outfielders of the National league; Jim Thorpe, the Indian person; George Kelley from Spokane, who finished the season with the 1915 Glants; Ed Houch, the great Federal league outfielder, who balked for a time on reporting because of salary differences; Dave Robertson, one of the 1916 regulars; R. E. Sherrin, from Portsmouth, Ohio; and several other rookies.

Burns and Kniff are sure of two of the jobs. The race for the other is very close, with Kelley leading slightly, owing to the fact that Kniff hasn't had much time to display his skill and Robertson is injured.

Bill Harden will be the regular back stop. He is speedy, is a powerful slinger, grabs everything that comes within ten feet of the plate and is a timely hitter. Charlie Doon will be his chief assistant. Bradley Ketcher, a youngster from Toronto, has shown enough to make it reasonably certain that he will remain with the club.

Here is the list of pitchers: Christy Mathewson, who may or may not be of value this year; Jeff Tennen, one of the best moundmen in the game; Pol Perritt, a sensation with the Cardinals but a sliver with the Glants this season; Hitter, right handed; Schupp, left handed; and Schauer, right handed, who performed fairly well with the Glants in 1915.

Roby Benton, former star of the Rhine leader staff; Ralph Stroud, who won

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica treatment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.

12 out of 21 games for the Glants last season: Edwin Delmonico, the Cuban, who barked with much success for the Rochester Internationals, and Fred Anderson one of the best pitchers in the international league last year.

What's the verdict Oscar? Where do you figure the Glants will finish when pitted against a field that lists the Braves, Cubs, Reds, Phillies, and Dodgers among its entries?

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, March 21.—An appeal is being made to business men throughout New England who are really interested in the training of men for military officers, in case of national emergency, to show their patriotism by providing the necessary funds to maintain one or more young men to the Phillipsburg military training camp this summer.

Secretary General S. Connolly who is in charge of the enlistments for the summer camp, with headquarters at N. 42 Water street, this city, suggests that the enrollment committee co-operate in selecting the men if the money is provided, or that in various sections of the state business men act as the headmasters and military instructors of the high schools to select boys for the senior grades to attend the junior training camp which will be held July 6 to August 8, at Phillipsburg. Further he suggests business men might send young men whom they employ and help defray their expenses. The cost of sending a boy to Phillipsburg for the course of training under officers of the regular army would be approximately $65. This would be about the amount required to send a boy from any section of New England. Of this amount, $14 would be required for a uniform, a set charge of $22.60 for expenses at the camp; $15 to cover loss of damage to government property, which would probably be refunded; $9 for two pairs of shoes; $14 for transportation and a small sum for incidentals, such as heavy socks, etc., making a total of $66.

All towns in New England are interested in the manner of procedure and the results of Brookline's first limited town meeting which is held as an adjourned town meeting today.

By the old form, the registered voters assembled, voted on the various articles in the town warrant. The new system allows 27 representatives from each of the nine precincts, in addition to town officials and the two members of the legislature, making a total of 293 voters. Any registered voter who is not a town meeting member may speak, but may not vote.

Fred Homer Williams who has presided at town meetings for several years, will preside at tonight's meeting.

Under the auspices of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Boston will have one of the largest and finest shows in its history some day in the month of May. It will be called the May Show and will be held in Horticultural hall and according to officials of this society will be of a national nature. No restrictions will be placed upon competitors desiring to enter because of location, and it is expected that exhibitions will be received from all parts of the east. The awards offered for the class winners of this show will be larger than ever before given by the society. Several novel changes are planned and a monster display is anticipated.

Health insurance, as the best means of preventing disease and giving every one a financial interest in his reduction was advocated by Michael H. Davis of the Boston Dispensary, in an address on "Prevention of Disease and Health Insurance." The greatest barrier to the full utilization of preventive medicine was declared to be the expense. Many persons, he said, fear to go to a doctor until they are suffering acutely, with the result that the doctor was compelled to effect a cure, whereas he might have prevented the disease entirely had it been

CITIES MAKING GOOD CITIZENS

Washington, March 20.—Five hundred and sixty-six cities in forty-four states now are giving special attention to the problem of educating aliens in the principles of American government, in order to better fit them for citizenship, according to Secretary of Labor Wilson.

During the fiscal year 1915, the Bureau of Naturalization received 350,000 applications for citizenship. This number included both declarations of intention and petitions for naturalization. Of that number, it is said not less than 150,000 had wives, thus making about one half million aliens coming within the jurisdiction of the bureau.

TEUTONS RENEW ATTACK ON THE VERDUN FRONT

Assault Pepper Hill and Open Bombardment at Malancourt and Vaux Region

Paris, March 20.—German forces have bombarded Malancourt and an attack made by them on the French positions at Cote de Polve has resulted in failure according to the announcement made by the French War Office this afternoon. There has been an intermittent bombardment in the region of Vaux.

The text of the statement follows: To the west of the River Meuse the enemy has delivered a bombardment of considerable violence in the region to the south of Malancourt. To the east of the river, after a preparatory fire from the German artillery (the enemy) delivered against our positions at Cote de Polve a small attack which resulted in complete failure. There has been an intermittent bombardment in the region of Vaux.

In the Wever district, the night passed quietly with the exception of a fairly spirited cannonading at Les Eparges. There has been nothing else of importance to report from the remainder of the front.

Fewer Shells at Verdun
The bombardment in the region north of Verdun very materially slackened during the course of the day, according to official statement issued by the French War Office last night. No attempt to attack was made by the Germans. The text of the statement follows:

"North of Rheims our artillery carried out a destructive fire on the enemy trenches at Neuville and the Gout farm. There was marked activity of our batteries in the region of Villa au Bois.

"In the region north of Verdun the bombardment slackened appreciably during the course of the day. The enemy made no attempt to attack.

"Northeast of St. Mihiel, our heavy artillery cannonaded reventuating depots of the enemy, at Vauxmay. There is nothing to report on the rest of the front.

The German forces in the Verdun region, continuing their activities northeast of the fortress, delivered an attack last night against the French front opposite Vaux and Dambloup. The afternoon report said, the attack was unsuccessful, being stopped by the French curtain of fire; the text of the report follows:

"East of the Meuse, after a violent bombardment, the enemy yesterday afternoon directed a somewhat spirited attack against the Vaux-Dambloup front. He was driven back by our curtain of fire, his attacks failing completely. During the night there was no action by the enemy infantry.

"The activity of the artillery has been intermittent in all sections in the region of Verdun. On the front as a whole the night was calm.

Gain a Little From British
Berlin, March 20.—A successful attack against the British lines northeast of Vermeilles, in which the Germans regained ground they had lost in intense fighting of March 2, was announced today by the War Office.

The text of the statement is as follows: "Western theatre. Northeast of Vermeilles, southeast of La Bassée canal, after effective artillery preparation and five successful explosions, we recaptured from the British some 'little gains' they had obtained in mine fighting on March 2. Of the British occupants the majority of whom were buried in the flattened trenches, we captured thirty survivors. A British counter-attack failed.

"The town of Lens was again bombarded by heavy British artillery."

British Admit Slight Loss.
London, March 20.—The British official statement on the campaign in France issued last night reads:

"The enemy yesterday (Saturday) expended mines, capturing three centers at the Hohenzollern redoubt. Today there was artillery activity around Arras, Arrasville and Wytschaete."

Belgians Busy at Dixmude

Paris, March 20.—The Belgian official communication reads:

"There was great activity by the artillery, especially in the region of Dixmude and north of Steenssinate."

Renew Salonica Fighting

London, March 20.—A strong French column with light artillery from the Salonica entrenched camp has attacked and occupied the villages of Macl-Kovo, Karandjic, and Kozuna, which had been entered by Teuton and Bulgarian forces, according to a Reuter despatch from Salonica dated March 18. The French had only a few casualties. Owing to the encroachments of the Teuton allies into Greek territory and the consequent advance of the French, the neutral frontier zone which had been agreed upon between the Greek and Bulgarian Governments is now eliminated. Forces of the Central Powers had of the Entente allies are free to face, the despatch adds, and shelling, sniping and grenade throwing are in progress in the neighborhood of the above mentioned villages, about thirty miles north of Salonica, as on the other fronts, where the adversary forces are in contact.

French Gain in Balkans
Paris, March 20.—French troops have occupied Ilep and Mayadut on the frontier between Greece and Serbian Macedonia after pursuing a German contingent into Bulgarian territory opposite the Ilyevski section, says a Havas despatch from Athens dated Saturday. The losses on each side were about thirty killed.

The French forces arrested forty persons on charges of espionage, says the despatch.

Greek territory has been invaded by a band of Bulgarian irregulars, who forced their way across the border in the vicinity of Denir-Hisar, according to a Havas despatch from Athens under yesterday's date. Greek regulars drove them back across the frontier, the raiders leaving two dead, the despatch adds. The interruption of telegraphic communication between Greece and the Central Empires and Roumania, recently reported, is attributed by the Havas correspondent at Athens to Bulgarians who are said to have cut the wires between Monastir and Florina.

Rush Rumanian Mobilization
London, March 20.—A despatch to the Times from Bucharest says:

"Rumanian military preparations are being hurriedly completed. All persons exempted in previous years from military service have been summoned back to the colors, together with several thousand refugees from Transylvania. The list of officers is being carefully revised, and several of the older officers, including the chief of the General Staff, have been pensioned and replaced by younger men."

Teuton Attacks Checked
Petrograd, via London, March 20.—The following communication was issued:

"Western (Ruslan) front:—In the Ilija section the enemy opened a lively artillery fire on the Ileskul bridgehead and farther south. In the Jacobstadt section there has been an artillery duel in the northern division. In the Vidza region our artillery cannonaded German trenches. The enemy attempted to take the offensive near the village of Medzany and south of Evereck, but was repulsed.

"The enemy artillery was active in the vicinity of Storgonne. Our Skirmishers took some enemy trenches in the upper Strija region and repulsed a counter-attack. In the same neighborhood we repulsed an enemy effort to approach the village of Yuzefovka."

CARRANZA SENDS FORMAL PROTEST

ASKS TOWN BE NOT OCCUPIED AND U. S. ASSURES HIM NO MEXICAN TOWNS WILL BE ENTERED.

Washington, March 20.—Gen. Carranza has formally protested against American troops occupying Casas Grandes in their pursuit of Villa, and the American government has replied that the troops have been ordered specifically not to occupy Casas Grandes or any other town or cities in Mexico.

The protest and reply were included in an exchange of notes between Acting Secretary Polk of the state department and Eliseo Arrandondon, ambassador designate to the United States from Mexico.

After a conference early today between President Wilson and Mr. Polk, it became known that Mr. Polk in a note forwarded to Mexico yesterday said instructions had been sent to Gen. Funston to keep his troops away from all towns.

Gen. Carranza has replied to the American government's request for use of Mexican railroad lines for movement of supplies with a request for more complete information of exactly what the war department wants.

WAR SHAKES FRENCH MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

Paris, March 20.—Marriage is a very serious question in France, and the thought that after the war there will not be enough husbands to go round is agitating the breasts of the French girls. One of them, Mlle. Marie Laparcerie, has written a booklet of some seventy pages in which she discusses the cruel enigma of what to do, and gives wise counsels on this delicate social subject.

The number of eligibles will be very restricted after the war, she says. "It will be necessary then, above everything, to resolve to be among the selected ones. Let this idea Je vous en marier! (I want to marry!) be always present with you."

But the author does not take into account that the war itself is changing the whole position and outlook of her sex. For one thing, it has forced unmarried and married women into occupations and situations formerly filled exclusively by men, and from which it will be difficult for the men to dislodge them when peace comes.

It has also taught women that they can make a living for themselves, and that marriage is not the only vocation open to a woman.

There is another and more subtle way in which the war has entered into this question of marriage; and this may have wide-reaching effects on the traditional French bargaining before choosing.

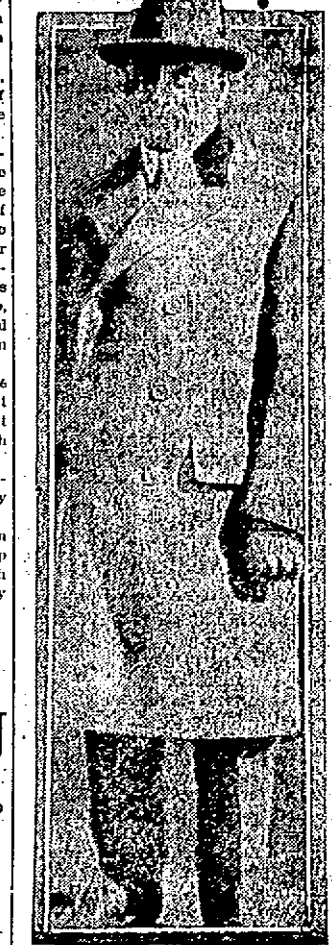

Girls, before the war, were guarded like vestals, and hardly ever got a chance to meet a young man, unless in the presence of mother or other dragon. Now the French maiden has gone out in her thousands as nurses, hospital help, worker for refugees or wounded, or into some other of the many activities created by the war.

She finds herself for the first time at liberty, she meets men, she gets to know them, she, also herself, encourages or frowns on their advances, she does not hide herself behind her mother's petticoats and wait to have her life and future companion chosen for her.

The war is the best marriage bureau France has ever known. Marriages of love occur every day, and the horrified parents have to bow to the imperious wills of their emancipated daughters. It is not unlikely that we shall see a radical change in the French system of arranging marriages after the war, or at least that the young people will insist on having a greater share in the preliminaries.

SOUVENIRS FOR HIPPODROME'S 300TH ANNIVERSARY.

On Wednesday of this coming week, the 300th performance of Charles Dillingham's "Hip Hip Hoory" will be celebrated at the Hippodrome. For the first time in the history of the vast playhouse the third century is reached with the popularity of its current offering at its very height. Instead of abating, the success at the Hippodrome seems to increase each week and a million and a half patrons will be the startling record reached next Wednesday. This is the largest number of people ever played to in a single season by any New York attraction; it is the greatest attendance ever recorded by any single theatrical offering in this country, including circuses, within the same length of time, represents aggregate gross receipts exceeding those of any single attraction in the history of the world. Seats are now on sale up to the middle of May and the Hippodrome will remain open well into the summer from present indications.

To mark this gala occasion every patron attending the Hippodrome will be presented with a souvenir edition of the Hippodrome Skating Book by Charles Dillingham. This will be the first distribution of a new text book on skating, profusely illustrated with half-tones and diagrams, and considered the finest handbook on figure skating ever published in America. This valuable souvenir book will be presented to every patron who attends next Wednesday night's presentation whether he occupies a family circle seat or a box.

RAISING THE DEWEY A TREMENDOUS JOB

Work of Bringing the Sunken Dry Dock to the Surface at Manila Bay Described in Illustrated Lecture by Naval Constructor Adams

With a small army of men working twenty-four hours a day for five weeks, building cofferdams, using steam, compressed air, centrifugal pumps, and every other means at their command, resulted finally in raising the sunken floating dry dock "Dewey" in Manila harbor in 1910. How it was accomplished was told and shown in an illustrated lecture at the Elks' Home last evening by Naval Constructor Lawrence S. Adams, U. S. N., Industrial Manager of the Portsmouth navy yard. Mr. Adams was at the time stationed at the navy yard at Cavite, Manila, P. I., and had charge of the work, although he was not in charge of the dock when she sank. Mr. Adams described the work in simple language that was devoid of all technicalities and his illustrations, both charted and photographic, added much to the clarity of the description.

He described the big dock and the work that it was to do in the beginning of his talk, telling how it was built on the Atlantic Coast and towed to Manila. On May 23, 1910 the dock was sunk in preparation for receiving two destroyers on which work was to be done in the morning. All of the watertight compartments and the staking and raising of the dock were controlled by one man by means of levers, located in a lever house at the top of the dock. At 1:30 o'clock in the morning of May 21 the man in charge of this work discovered that the submerged dock had listed badly and he sunk the higher side a little more than a foot to the right. At 4:00 o'clock he again noticed a further list and sent word to the dock master, who was living on shore. Before the dock master could arrive the dock sank in more than 70 feet of water, one side remaining above water, the lower side imbedding itself in the mud and sand on the bottom.

Mr. Adams stated that owing to the typhoon season being due in a little more than a month, and knowing that one severe storm would likely destroy the big dock, it was necessary to get it to the surface at once. Several different plans were thought probable, but in order to waste no time three were tried at once; all in the nature of experiments. Divers were sent down, natives and petty officers of the torpedo fleet stationed there, and the work of going over the pipes and watertight compartments was started.

These divers were without suits, wearing only the helmet as they were able to work faster and the danger was lessened in a measure owing to the compressed air pipes running into the sunken compartments. Had a suit been worn by these men and a compressed air pipe burst, as they did on many occasions, throwing the men over and capsizing the floats supplying them with air, they would have died before being able to reach the surface. With just the helmet they were able to free themselves and gain the surface. Mr. Adams paid a high tribute to these men, both the Americans and the natives, saying that they did invaluable work, although their lives were continually in danger for the entire five weeks.

Great difficulty was experienced in getting the necessary steam and air hose, and large pumps were unobtainable. Pumps from tugs and derricks were used until such time as the pumps on the dock were made available to assist in the work. Cofferdams were made necessary to sink these suction pumps and to allow the water to pass from the compartments as the air was forced in. All of the compartments were connected by pipes which were supposed to be watertight and it was soon found that although the air was being forced into the tanks on the lower side of the dock, the tanks from the higher side were the ones which were being emptied and the dock was not rising from the lower side at all.

After two weeks work, several different methods being employed, one side of the dock was completely out of water, and the lower side was still settling. Much digging in the harbor bottom was done in order to allow the water to escape through the vent pipes of the tanks as the air was forced in. The big centrifugal pump of the dock was finally brought into play and was used continuously until it had to be stopped and overhauled; the constant work in the salt water completely putting it out of commission.

While the pump was being repaired, the lower side, which had started to rise, sank again, this time going even lower than before. The forward end of the lower side had by this time raised somewhat so that the dock was resting on one end in the mud. Day after day as they worked, the tanks gradually emptied of the water and were filled with air, adding great buoyancy to the dock and on June 25, five weeks after she sank, the Dewey was again at the surface. It was months before it was again ready for service as it had to be thoroughly overhauled and self-docked.

Mr. Adams said that it has never been discovered how or why the Dewey sank. All investigations failed to show what the matter had been and it is not likely that the reason will ever be known. The Dewey has been in service ever since and has not sunk a second time.

Mr. Adams concluded his talk with a talk on the Philippine Islands, showing a number of interesting pictures of the natives and telling of their life and customs. His talk proved interesting and instructive and his views of the natives would probably enlighten some of the congressmen who are so eager to give them their freedom and self government.

Following the address a lunch was served in the grill room, the menu including shrimp salad, rolls, crackers, cheese, doughnuts and coffee.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, put a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

POINTED BRIEFS

Earth has no charm for the man whose wife is a widow.

A woman's life is never the same after a severe disappointment in love.

Love that is only half remembered is only half delight.

To love wisely is never a matter of calculation; to love well is never to choose.

Petty men converse only with women. It is only a species of men who never do.

A man who speaks of woman's moods may often tell of his own experiences.

Coffee Facts

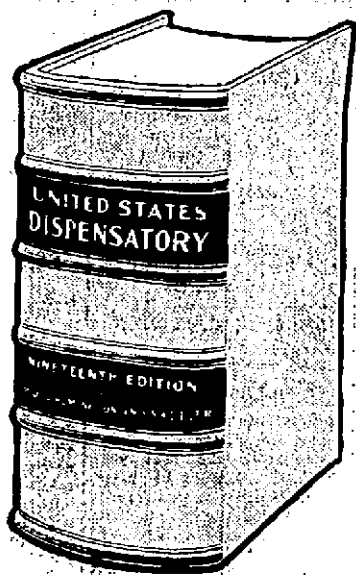

Read what the 19th edition United States Dispensatory (page 253), the guiding authority for chemists, druggists, and physicians, says about the drug, caffeine, of which there is about 2½ grains in the average cup of coffee:

"Given in large dose to the lower animals, caffeine produces hurried respiration, restlessness, slightly lowered, followed by a markedly elevated temperature, tetanic and clonic convulsions, progressive paralysis, and finally death from paralytic arrest of respiration."

Although man is stronger and more resistant, it is a well-known scientific fact that caffeine, in coffee, is a frequent cause of headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter and many other ills.

Not at one large dose, but by little doses repeated regularly does this subtle, habit-forming drug get in its work, and, sooner or later, many coffee drinkers suffer.

Before that time comes, suppose you make a personal test—quit coffee ten days and use

TELEPHONES:

Editorial.....28 Business.....37

Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday, March 21, 1916.

Anniversary of the Telephone.

A very important anniversary was quietly celebrated in Boston March 13, this being nothing less than the "birth of the telephone." The celebration consisted in the unveiling of two memorial tablets, one in the building where Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, conceived the idea of the transmission of the human voice by wire, and the other in the room from which Professor Bell transmitted the first complete and intelligible message by means of his great invention. This message was sent March 10, 1876. The tablets were erected jointly by the Bostonian Society and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The telephone has been in such common use for years that many of the younger generation will doubtless be surprised to learn that it is only forty years since it was developed. And those who remember its coming will reflect with interest and pleasure on the great improvements that have been made and the wonderful perfection the telephone has reached, though in view of the achievements of the past it is safe to believe that the end has not yet been reached. We are already hearing about wireless telephone, and what the next forty years will bring forth but a brave man would dare to predict.

When the telephone first came the transmitter and the receiver were one and the same thing. That defect was soon remedied. For years thereafter it was possible to call up only by ringing a bell, and then came the improvement by which the call is made by placing the receiver to the ear. The distance to which messages can be transmitted has been steadily stretched until now it is possible to talk across the continent, as has been demonstrated on numerous occasions of late.

Little wonder is it that the telephone has come into such common use. It is a convenience and a utility which because of our familiarity with it is not appreciated at half its value. "Great thing," we say, and go on using it as freely as we use the power of speech, thinking no more about the one than the other.

A truly wonderful thing is the telephone. As a saver of steps and time it leads all other inventions put together. Its removal would have an effect on business like the application of brakes to a freight train. Business would not come to a total stop, but there would be a mighty slowing down.

The telephone in one form or another will exist as long as civilization, and with it will endure the name of its inventor, Alexander Graham Bell.

Dr. William Osler, whose "chloroform at sixty" theory attracted widespread attention some years ago, and who is now a professor in Oxford University in England, advises the troops in the trenches to stamp their feet or do the hop, skip and jump when the weather is severe to keep their feet from freezing, many of the soldiers having suffered from frozen feet during the winter. Americans living in sections where winter is rigorous do not need such instruction, they having practiced the simple preventive recommended by the doctor from their earliest boyhood.

Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania has "accepted an invitation" from National Republican Committeeman H. G. Wason of that state to be a candidate for the presidential nomination and his name will consequently be on the Pennsylvania primary ballot. There never were so many "Barkises" as there are this year, and never were they more "willin'."

There is talk in New York of changing the name of the Bowery to Central Broadway. It is a question whether Broadway people will take kindly to this suggestion, and whether it would result in any benefit to the world-famed Bowery. As in the case of a person, changing the name of the Bowery would not change its features.

American mining firms doing business in Mexico are advising their employees to get out, not being disposed to stickle for their "rights" just at present. They evidently feel that Mexico is a better place for soldiers than for miners at this juncture.

A western paper gives a list of 19 men from which it expects the Republicans to select a candidate for president. With such a list to begin with there would seem to be little room for any "dark horse."

Iowa is talking of offering a reward for the capture of Villa. But with the United States army on his trail, where is the necessity or propriety of such a step?

It is admitted on all sides that this has been an old-fashioned winter. And not the least old-fashioned thing about it is the way it "hangs to the binder."

TOTAL VOTE OF THE PRIMARIES

Shrinkage of One-Half In Vote of Previous Primary.

Official returns of the presidential primary held Tuesday have been canvassed by the secretary of state and show that the vote cast was 17,465. Slight small towns have not been heard from and the presumption is that no votes were cast in those towns.

The vote of the several parties was as follows: Republican, 10,338; Democratic, 6,165; Progressive, 172. This vote represents a shrinkage of about one-half from the vote cast at the last primary when candidates for governor polled a combined Republican vote of 19,233, Democratic vote of 10,710 and Progressive vote of 778, a total of 30,721.

The only contest in the presidential primary was between the five Republican candidates for four positions as delegates-at-large to the national convention at Chicago. The result of this contest was the choice of an unpledged delegation by a majority of 4,867, the defeated candidate being pledged to Roosevelt.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

MARRIED IN ONE STATE AND NOT IN ANOTHER.

(From "The Editorial")

An inquirer in the Chicago Tribune asks, "I was divorced in Illinois and married within three months in Indiana. Is my second marriage legal outside of Illinois?" The reply is that "in Indiana the second marriage is valid. It is not legal or valid in Illinois." This case presents one of the absurdities of our system of laws. If the validity of a first marriage in one state is recognized in all others, why should not the divorce laws be respected as well? In asking for a marriage license the applicants should be required to state whether they had been divorced and the date of the granting of the decree. Then if the laws of the state in which the divorce was granted prohibit the remarriage of either party at that time the issuance of the marriage license may be withheld. A few states have taken such a stand either by a departmental ruling or legislative enactment. In the absence of uniform divorce laws every state should take it upon itself to co-operate in the observance of existing laws.

HOBSON'S VINDICATION.

(From the Chicago Evening Post.) A few years ago Richmond Pearson Hobson of Merline, Maine was accused of "seeing things." Mr. Hobson as early as 1908 and 1909 was giving his warnings of coming conflicts between the nations of earth and was telling his fellow countrymen to prepare for defense. Hobson is a brave man, and as people like brave men, they have with his warnings, laughing at them, it is true, and saying that Senator Hobson ought to know enough occasionally to close his hatchway.

When this Spanish war sailor hero told his fellow countrymen they ought to begin to think seriously on the building of dreadnaughts and submarines that always ready answer to him was that the time that was approaching when neither dreadnaughts nor submarines would be necessary and when all the nations of the world were to agree to dwell together forever in peace. Not all the peace preachers in the world could silence Hobson. He kept at it and seemed to thrive on opposition. He went at his speechmaking just as he went at his task of sinking the Merline, without any regard to the risk of shot and shell.

Today we are inclined to think that Hobson has been vindicated. He was the only Democrat in the House of Representatives who stood with Theodore Roosevelt, then the President of the United States, in his desire that the country should prepare itself for defense. Roosevelt at one time astounded Congress by asking for four great battleships. Hobson was the only member of the House of Representatives who said that the President was right in his request. If there is any man in the United States who has a right with Theodore Roosevelt to say, "I told you so," he is Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama.

Yes, indeed, My Dear Brother, Theodore Beaudry of Rutland, Vt., has brought suit for divorce from his wife, whom he claims has a habit of going to bed with an axe under her pillow. He claims this habit causes him to lose his sleep night after night.

PRACTICAL LUNCHEONS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Washington, D. C., March 18.—What shall school children be given to eat at noon in the lunch basket, at the

CURRENT OPINION

United States Prepared to Meet Any Change of Conditions.

There appears to be every reason to look forward to successful business during the coming months, with prices strong and rising and with bank capital abundant at reasonable rates. It must not be forgotten, however, that the whole world is on an unstable basis and that the continuous depletion of European stocks of capital will inevitably reflect its result upon the United States at the close of the war—perhaps even before that time.

Productive capacity abroad may be quickly promptly restored, but the restoration of purchasing power will be a much slower matter.

With the use of sound business judgment and with the general acceptance of the present situation all over the world as temporary and transitional the United States may look forward with confidence to a substantial continuance of its present prosperity and to successful preparation for any changes that may come.—By Charles S. Hamlin, President Federal Reserve Bank.

home lunch table, or in the lunch room operated by the school authorities? To help answer this question, which almost any mother and many of the educational authorities are asking constantly, the U. S. Department of Agriculture through the office of Home Economics has just issued Farmers' Bulletin, No. 712, "School Lunches."

This bulletin was prepared by Miss Caroline L. Hunt and Miss Mabel Ward under the direction of Dr. C. F. Langworthy of the state relations service. The bulletin, after discussing the general principles of feeding school children to provide for activity and develop them into sturdy manhood and womanhood, gives a number of simple appetizing menus for the school lunch basket and bills-of-fare and receipts for preparing inexpensive and nourishing noonday meals or hot dishes for children, either at home, on a school stove, or in the domestic science kitchen.

In feeding a child or any one else, the authors of the bulletin point out, it is not wise to think of any one meal apart from the other two. It is seldom convenient to provide at one meal all the materials needed by a "growing body, and those which are omitted from one meal should be supplied by one of the other meals. The noon meal for children however, where food must be prepared at home in the morning to be eaten elsewhere at noon, or where the children must hurry home, eat quickly and then rush back to school, offers special difficulties and deserves the special attention of parents.

Before it is possible to prepare a national basket or other luncheon for children, it is necessary for the mother to understand the general essentials of diet for young people. These essentials in general are an abundance of simple foods, carefully prepared and of sufficient variety to provide energy, repair wastes, provide elements for building bone and tissue, and stimulate growth. To do this most effectively the three meals each day must supply the child with sufficient food from each of the following classes:

1. Cereal or starchy foods. Cereals eaten principally as bread, supply nearly half of the protein (commonly thought of as tissue-building material) and nearly two-thirds of the fuel energy in the American diet. The quality of the bread therefore, is extremely important. Its crust should be crisp and deep (indicating thorough baking) but not hard or burned. It should be light and free from any suggestion of sourness or rancidity. The crumb should be elastic and yet capable of being easily broken up in the mouth without forming a sticky mass, or being too dry to taste good. These qualities can be secured in rolls and biscuits as well as in ordinary bread, provided they are cooked thoroughly. The objection to hot bread is that under-cooking may leave it very soggy on the inside, rather than because such breads are eaten hot. The child's appetite for bread may be stimulated by using different kinds of bread, zwieback and crackers, by the addition of raisins, currants, or nut meats and sometimes by cutting the slices into fancy shapes.

Cereal mushes and ready-to-eat breakfast foods supply nearly the same nutrients as bread, a half cupful of cooked cereal being about equivalent to a good sized slice of bread. A tablespoonful of cereal is about equivalent in fat to a liberal spreading of butter.

2. Protein rich foods.—White bread and cereals come near to filling one of the important requirements of diet—correct proportion of nutrients providing fuel only and those useful for body-building—other foods which provide protein in large proportion as compared with fuel should not be neglected. These foods include milk, meat (except the very fattest), fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, dried beans, cowpeas, peas, peanuts, and almonds, walnuts and other nuts. Nuts of course also contain considerable fat. Milk is an absolute essential, not only because it contains a large number of nourishing substances in forms easily assimilated, but also because in some way not now fully understood, milk seems to promote growth and help the body of a child make good use of other foods. Milk is rich in most kinds of mineral matter, particularly lime, useful in the development of bone and tissue.

Milk should never be omitted wholly from the diet of a child. If it is not used at luncheon it should appear at other meals. For luncheon it has been found that such dishes as milk toast, milk soups made with vegetables, fish or vegetable chowders, and cocoa are valuable food easily prepared at home or in the school, because they require no oven and call only for simple utensils. White sauces made of vegetable juices, milk or broth, differ from milk soup, largely in that they contain more flour. When considering milk, the food value of skim milk, which contains a larger value of protein though less fat than full milk, should not be overlooked.

Eggs, the next of protein foods commonly given to children contain much iron and their yolks are rich in fat.

LEWISTON GIRL IS HELD

As Witness Against Bell Boy She Elope With.

(Special to The Herald)

Syracuse, N. Y., March 21.—Miss Elizabeth Brisson, aged 17, of Lewiston, Me., is being held by the federal authorities here as a material witness against Wilfred Mathe, accused of violating the Mann White Slave Act. In default of $1,000 bail the girl was taken to the county jail. Mathe was a bell boy at the hotel owned by the girl's parents in Lewiston. In February they eloped. Mathe said they intended to get married here.

CANADIAN COST OF LIVING RISES

Washington March 21.—Cost of living in Canada is steadily soaring according to consular agents' reports to the Commerce Department. Statistics covering the past year showed that foods jumped in price, and a very steep advance was recorded in materials, chiefly metals and chemicals. The cost of a weekly supply of thirty staple foods rose from $7.97 to $9.13. Flour showed a slight decline, but butter, eggs and potatoes decreased in price.

U. S. TO SIGN PROTOCOL

Arrangements to Be Made for Co-operation With de Facto Government.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, March 21.—President Wilson today decided upon the formation of a protocol to be signed by representatives of the United States and the de facto government of Mexico providing for co-operative movements to exterminate "a common enemy," namely, Villa. This decision was reached at a long cabinet meeting. Immediately following the meeting Secretary Baker went into conference with General McCain, judge advocate of the army, concerning the army's needs, which will have to be outlined in the agreement.

TOWN WIPED OFF THE MAP

Mexican Bandits Raid Village and Burn All Houses.

(Special to The Herald)

El Paso, March 21.—The little town of Delicias in southwestern Coahuila was wiped off the map by bandits last week, according to stories reaching the border today. It is said that more than twenty of the citizens were killed during the raid and that every house was burned after being robbed. Whether any Americans lost their lives in the raid is not known. The stories declare that the raiders were remnants of defeated Carranza soldiers in the state of Durango. All horses and cattle were driven off by the bandits. Several of the dead are women who protested against their homes being robbed. At the cathedral one of the priests was killed and the church was robbed.

A SPRING RENEWAL.

How to Utilize a Castoff Feather Bed by Making Pillows of It.

A few women are fortunate in having inherited a number of old bed pillows and bolsters, and there is nothing like old fashioned feathers for dividing up into filling for sofa pillows while they last. These feathers can always be put together again for bed use if needed, and meanwhile they might just as well be used for sofa pillows as to be laid away in the storeroom.

However, not every one is so fortunate as to have accumulated the feathered bed coverings of her ancestors, and then it is found that to buy new feathers is expensive. The cheaper pillows bought ready made are filled with cotton or with soft clippings from linen and cotton rags, and a good home-made filling for a pillow may be made by cutting a roll of cotton into small squares and heating them in a pan in the oven for half an hour, taking care not to let the cotton scorch. Every square will, according to best authority, swell to twice its original size and become as light and fluffy for filling as feathers.

SCRAP THE TABLECLOTH

How to Make Attractive Luncheon Sets to Replace a Burden.

Many of the new luncheon sets are square instead of round. Whether it is merely a passing fad or a fashion here to stay remains to be seen. These square sets have a wide hem and a drawwork border three-quarters of an inch wide, and a feature of this new drawwork is the introduction of colored threads.

Swedish weaving is another form of needlework being revived and is applied to household linens. It is really based on drawwork, but is slightly different, worked in color and quite simple. The delightful part is that after one has acquired a working knowledge of the few stitches used one can create one's own design.

How to Pack Books So the Covers Won't Rub.

To pack books in small packing cases stand the parcels on end with the edges next to the sides of the cases and the back of the bindings pointed toward the inward, and pack them with crumpled newspapers to ease the pressure on the round part of the books, which may otherwise be pressed flat. Line the case with wrapping paper. Lay a thickness of wrapping paper over the top and fasten on the cover with screws in preference to nails.

How to Treat a Bad Burn Before the Doctor Comes.

The best immediate application for a burn or scald is carbol oil. This preparation of equal parts of linseed oil and lard should be kept always at hand when there are young children about. When a child receives a burn or scald shake the bottle of carbol oil thoroughly; then saturate some lint, gauze or muslin with it and put on the burned surface. Clean olive oil or vasoline are good substitutes for the carbol oil.

ANOTHER KITTERY PASTOR PAYS HIS TAXES

A Herald Reporter Has Interesting Interview With Rev. Wm. M. Forgrave.

A Herald reporter interviewed Rev. William M. Forgrave of Kittery, this morning regarding what he thought of the interview the paper had with Judge Justin H. Shaw as given in Monday's issue.

Mr. Forgrave did not have anything to say regarding the town meeting as he seemed to feel that Mr. Shaw not having been present, was certainly not qualified to talk about it.

The reporter then inquired of Mr. Forgrave as to his opinion as to whether a minister should pay a poll tax or not. He replied: "As for myself, I have always paid my poll tax, and also my tax on the property I own, and hope to continue to do so. I admire Rev. Mr. Merry, if he, as reported, paid his poll tax to the selectmen voluntarily for it is 'the right thing' and the only thing to do. I believe that a minister is a citizen as much as any other man and should pay his taxes accordingly, and after having paid his taxes, should be permitted to have a say in the government as a citizen."

The reporter asked Mr. Forgrave if he had paid a poll tax within the last year and he replied: "I have not only paid my poll tax, but have paid all my taxes, and if any should care to see them—call."

IN MEMORY OF HATTIE JOY COLBURN

Who Passed From This Life Feb. 28, 1915

Time passes quickly. Is it so that now a year has flown away. Since thou unto thy rest did go And left us sad to longer stay?

The tender hands didst care for then Thy husband minister to thee well—Altho' they cared so tenderly, Thou couldst not longer with us dwell.

But all thy virtues are as clear As when thou first didst take thy flight, Time brightens them and yet more dear Today they are than yesternight.

And 'tho' unable thou to move As wish and heart would prompt thee to go, Yet acts of sympathy and love From thee to others oft did flow.

A thoughtful neighbor wast thou here, A friend where friendliness had need, With words to bless or smiles to cheer, Accompanying a loving deed.

And little children ne'er have ceased To tell of kindness from thee, And inasmuch as to the least The act (said one) was done to me.

A faithful wife wast thou at home, And ruling well thy household ways, Thy husband's steps did gladly come, To thee to end the busy days.

Ty creed the ministry of need Thy purpose, to relieve distress; To those in want thou gavest heed, 'Twas this that brought the happiness.

And those who above could go Unhindered as thou didst not live, Are shamed so little help to show, As thou didst to the needy give.

And we rejoice who loved thee dear—That now thy spirit flown away, No longer feeble as thou wast here, With fullest powers, art thou today.

And sent the joys thou knowest now, As eye to eye there seemest thou, The pain and sorrow known below, Seems but a little to thee now.

From gates now left ajar by thee, Thou beckonest to all thy way, To heaven that happier seems to me, Since thou didst enter there, that day.

—For her Husband by Edward Hallet Macy, Ogunquit, (Maine), March 8, 1916.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., March 21.—In spite of the sharp and frosty mornings of this snowy month, this March is not the record breaker in temperature that it is in snow according to the official reports here. The thermometer got to zero March 12 to one above zero on March 18th, and to three and four, respectively, March 17 and March 20. This is cold weather but in March, 1912 there were three days when the mercury recorded temperatures below zero and March 6 of that year the March minimum was established when seven degrees below zero was recorded. In 1913, March 13, the temperature fell to four below and in 1907, zero was recorded. The records which go back to 1907 show the minimum for March in these years to have been: 1914, 9; 1913, 4; 1912, 7; 1911, 8-10; of a degree above zero; 1910, 7; 1909, 9; 1908, 7; 1907, zero.

WAR BOOMS HORSE AND MULE SALES

Washington, March 21.—American horse breeders shared the big profits accruing from shipments to the warring nations during the seven months ending January 31, 1916. Their total sales to England, France and Russia amounted to $51,152,672, according to figures made public today by Dr. E. E. Pratt, chief of the bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The Missouri mule was conspicuous among the big export items. Collector's returns showed that $14,116,237 was paid to American mule raisers, mostly Missourians, for animals sent to Europe. Government officials say that with the opening of Spring and the renewal of campaigns on the French and German fronts with greater intensity, shipments of animals will be greatly increased. The February and March returns are expected to greatly exceed those of January.

THE APRIL AMERICAN MAGAZINE

Distinctive articles on subjects of universal interest and good fiction are the leading features of the April American Magazine. "Better Doctoring for Less Money," by Dr. Richard C. Cabot, chief of the medical staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital, tells why the very rich and the very poor receive the best medical aid and why the rest of us don't fare so well.

"What You Can Do With Your Will Power," by Dr. Russell H. Conwell, a Philadelphia pastor who has made millions through delivering his famous lectures on the forces of the will, informs the reader of the chief requisites for success and how to obtain and apply them. Interviews with James R. Mann, Republican floor leader of the House of Representatives, and Oscar W. OFFICIAL SPRING ARRIVED WITH REAL WINTER WEATHER

Spring officially arrived on Monday but the mere fact that it did arrive according to the calendar had little effect on the conduct of the weatherman. Freezing temperature prevailed all during the night before and although the sun did some very fine work during the day with the arrival of evening the temperature again returned to that of winter. At 3.00 o'clock Monday morning the thermometer registered 12 degrees above zero in Market square and in the Creek section of the city it was reported as low as 6. Monday night was not as bad, but it might be a good deal better.

Last year there was no snow in this section of the state. Great day was free from ice and people were planning their gardens. High school and college baseball teams were getting in a little out-door practice and the Sunset League team candidates were "knocking 'em up" on the playgrounds. All the out-door exercise there are getting at present in the work with the snow shovel.

None of the usual harbingers of spring have not arrived although a few robins and pussy willows have reported. A patch of bare ground is one of the sights that are missing. In the woods the maple syrup men are lying around doing nothing, except waiting.

The weather man holds out little hope of spring weather this month. Storms are predicted for April, and it is probable that another snow squall will be experienced before the month of March passes by.

Slightly warmer weather is on tap for tomorrow according to the forecast.

HOBBES HEADS LIST OF PROBATE JUDGES

The death of William B. Blodgett, Judge of probate court at Providence recently, leaves Judge Hobbs of North Berwick, Me., the oldest on the list of probate court judges in the United States.

At the time of the death of Judge Blodgett he had been connected with the probate court for 45 years, and three years longer than the York county Judge.

He was born in Randolph, Vt., in 1824 and for 47 years was probate Judge of Pawtucket. He was for many years leader of the Republicans in the house of representatives, but retired from active politics about 13 years ago. He is survived by three sons and one daughter.

Judge Blodgett it will be remembered was invited to the birthday party given Judge Hobbs of North Berwick at Cape Porpoise on July 29, 1914, in celebration of his 90th anniversary, which was due September 10, but was unable to attend owing to his infirmities.

Both Judge Hobbs and Judge Blodgett were born in 1824, making their ages the same within a few months.

MAY CLASH WITH VILLA WITHIN THIRTY-SIX HOURS

Bandit Leader Defeated by Carranza Forces and Fleeing Northward Toward El Valle Where American Column is Headed.

El Paso, Texas, March 21.—Villan, bandit leader of the Mexican revolutionary forces, has been met and defeated in battle by Carranza forces at Chiles and is reported as fleeing northward toward El Valle. Dispatches from General Funston at San Antonio show that at least one column of the American force are headed toward El Valle and should reach there within thirty-six hours.

A detachment of Carranza forces have returned to the border and are reported as having deserted their ranks, refusing to fight against Villa in behalf of the Americans. Villa is hemmed in by troops and must fight or be captured within thirty-six hours. Three columns of American troops are pressing forward toward the point where Villa is headed and the Carranza forces are pressing hard from the southward.

Funston Gives Positions of Columns

San Antonio, Tex., March 21.—General Funston, in command of the American expeditionary forces engaged in the attempt to capture the Mexican bandit leader, Villa, announced last night the positions and directions being taken by the three columns of the American army now in Mexico. The first column has left Casas Grandes, moving south towards Babia. The second is moving south east towards El Valle. The third is also moving southeast toward Catman.

Carranza to Refuse Use of Railroads?

Washington, March 21.—A request from Carranza to the President as to his reasons for wanting to use the Mexican railroads for the transportation of troops and supplies has been received. It is not known now whether Carranza intends to refuse the use of these lines or not. A reply will be sent today.

Aeroplanes in Action.

Columbus, N. M., March 21.—Six army bi-planes have crossed into Mexico from here, leaving at different times. They will be attached to the different commands of the American army now operating in Mexico and will be used for scout purposes.

Plan to Use Fleet in Mexico

Washington, March 20.—Plans have been completed for increasing the An-merican naval forces on the Mexican east coast.

This will not be done unless an emergency arises, but the 500 marines sent to Pensacola will be held in readiness for immediate transfer, while the Kearsarge will be held ready for orders to join the Kentucky at Vera Cruz.

It is not the present intention of the Navy Department to send any of the Atlantic fleet vessels to Mexico from Guantanamo if that can be avoided.

The Kearsarge and Kentucky, however, have been in Mexican waters for months, and the Kentucky already is on her way back to Vera Cruz from New Orleans.

Sending the Kearsarge to join her would not cause any irritation among the Mexicans, and it would be possible in that event to send with the battleship an augmented marine guard that would be available for any emergency that might arise.

It is expected that at tomorrow's Cabinet meeting the President will take up with his advisers the question of what action shall be taken should it develop that Villa has managed to escape into his mountain refuge.

To "Get Villa."

The United States troops are in Mexico to "get Villa." No other interpretation can be placed upon the orders sent to the border following the cabinet meeting which considered the entire Mexican situation, in the opinion of Acting Secretary of State Polk. The orders directed that the bandit forces that have been causing trouble along the entire border be dispersed. But, in the opinion of the Acting Secretary of State, the chief significance of the orders was the flat direction conveyed to General Funston that Villa must be killed or captured.

Following a half-hour conference between President Wilson and Counselor-in-Chief today, the latter reiterated his belief that Villa would be disposed of as a factor in Mexican affairs before the American troops were withdrawn. His statement had special significance inasmuch as it was coupled with an indication that he did not believe that there would be any real trouble in arranging for supplies to be sent to the American punitive expedition over the Mexican railway lines. It was pointed out that the United States had permitted the free passage of Carranzistas troops to come with the Sonora situation, and that the United States had arranged for the passage of Carranza for the pursuit of Villa is entirely of a reciprocal nature.

Avoid Towns.

The State Department today confirmed the International News Service reports of Saturday that assurances had been given Ambassador Designate Arrondado that the United States not only would not occupy any Mexican cities or towns, but would detour around them where it was necessary to pass. Although the specific assurance was given in connection with Casas Grandes, Acting Secretary Polk made it plain that it referred to all Mexican cities. This assurance, however, will not prevent American forces searching any town in which it had information that Villa has secreted himself.

All of the advice received today at the state, War and Navy Departments were of a reassuring sort. While they failed to quiet the apprehension of the officials who have from the beginning believed that Carranza would not be able to control the situation, the highest administration authorities insisted that there was no real basis for this apprehension.

In this connection the status of General Obregon will be the final determining factor. He rules the Carranza forces with a rod of steel, and so long as he agrees to the policy of non-interference with the American expedition it seems certain that it will encounter only the opposition of the Villa sympathizers and deserters from the Carranza cause.

Vera Cruz Quiet.

Conditions in both the Vera Cruz and the Tampico districts are quiet, according to advice received by the commanders of the Marietta and the Machins now stationed at the two ports. As a result the battleship Kentucky, en route to Vera Cruz, has been diverted into Galveston, and the orders to her sister ship, the Kearsarge, have been withheld for the present.

Advice received today from Consul Silliman says that General Carranza has made every possible effort to make it plain to his followers in every part of Mexico that the movements of American troops is in every way indorsed by him.

So far as border reports that the Carranza commanders in the north were considering sending a general protest to the "first chief" against the presence of Americans on Mexican soil are concerned, the Silliman report says that Carranza believes that these commanders will co-operate in every way with the Americans.

Rush Ford Truck Train and Hospital Unit Into Mexico.

Columbus, N. M., March 20.—One of the problems the commissary department has been striving to solve is that of supplies with which to feed the troops. For several years the internal strife in Mexico virtually has stifled the agricultural interests of the district through which the American troops are passing. As a result neither food for the men nor forage for the animals can be obtained in Mexico and must be transported from here.

The large motor trucks, the equipping of which has occupied military and civilian mechanics for two days, were ready for service today. The additional hospital and signal units also are ready for field service.

Major W. H. Sample, commandant at the military field base here, was kept in communication with Gen. Pershing's forces by means of the army wireless, but adhering tenaciously to the censorship ruling he refused to make public any information received. Instructions have been issued that not only communications sent out by newspaper correspondents must be censored, but also that those of officers and men of the army and of residents of Columbus must be passed on. All incoming telegraphic messages are passed on by the military censor before delivery.

Urgent preparations were begun today for a command hospital. The hospital is to operate with the field hospital and ambulance companies now with the expeditionary forces and with base hospital at El Paso.

Every soldier accompanying the punitive expeditionary force has been vaccinated against smallpox and given the army prophylaxis treatment for typhoid. Especial attention also is given by army medical officers to prevent outbreaks of typhus, which has been prevalent recently throughout the southern republic.

Testing for Poison

It is known here that the medical officers who accompanied the troops are taking thorough sanitary measures at each stopping place and that all water supplies are being tested for traces of poison.

No interruption of concentration marked the passing of Sunday in Columbus. The troops were kept so busily engaged in preparations for eventualities that even religious services were impossible.

A UNIQUE SERVICE

The service in the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday night was of unusual character. The items in the service were supplied by the Epworth League and were as follows: A song service, led by Mr. J. H. Smith; three 10 minute addresses by Mr. D. H. Crossley, Mr. H. J. Hillon and Mr. E. A. Malins. The Malo Quartet sang. The addresses were warm with personal religious interest and were appeals to live a Christian life of morality and service before God and man. A large congregation was present.

MR. HUBBARD APPRECIATED BY AUDIENCE

GAVE OPERATIC TALKS OF HENSEL AND GRETEL AND TANNHAUSER AT ASSOCIATION HALL.

An appreciative audience at Association Hall, Y. M. C. A. Building heard Mr. Hubbard in his operatic talk on Tannhauser Monday evening. Mr. Hubbard has a novel way of telling the stories of the great operas and was at his best in Tannhauser. With the assistance of the pianist, playing the more effective musical numbers he selected or sang many of the passages, following the action of the opera through from its start to its close.

His work was appreciated and heartily applauded by the audience. In the afternoon Mr. Hubbard delightfully entertained another large audience, many of those attending being children, with his descriptive talk on Wagner's juvenile opera, Hensel and Gretel. He presented the characters of the little German children, the old witch, the parents of the children, and described the coming of the sunbeam, the angels, and the gingerbread house in so realistic a manner that they could almost be seen. The talks were given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A.

NEW ENGLAND SEASON OF OPERA.

The season of grand opera which the Metropolitan Opera Company is to give in the Boston Opera House the three weeks beginning April 3 will be in the full sense of the term a season of opera for New England. With the discontinuance of Boston's opera company, this part of the country has been compelled to rely for its grand opera on traveling companies of small size and mediocre quality. Happily, however, conditions were such that the great Metropolitan Opera Company is able this year to spend three weeks in Boston, whether it is brought by Charles A. Ellis, the Manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The Metropolitan Opera Company, when it comes to Boston, brings everything except the Metropolitan Opera House. It is giving 22 operas in 25 performances, bringing its orchestra of 90, its 55 principal singers including Caruso, Farrar, Koppel, Gaddski, Barrientos, the great Spanish coloratura singer, Alda, Rappold, Kurt, Over, Homer, Martini, Hetta, Sembach, Ullis, Amato, Deluca, Cortiz, Welt, Whitehill, Bohler, Braun, Bidur and Seguro, as well as its three great conductors, Polacco, Bayvonn and Bodansky. It brings its chorus of 100, its ballet of 60 and with its stage forces and administration forces the total number of persons employed in the Boston season will be over 400.

In every respect this will be the most brilliant season of opera Boston has ever had. There will be performances on every evening of the three weeks and matinees on the three Wednesdays and three Saturdays. In addition to these, there will be a special performance of Wagner's stage consecration festival play "Parsifal" on Friday afternoon April 21.

The repertoire is as follows: Monday evening, April 3, Moussergsky's "Boris Godunoff" the greatest of Russian operas; Tuesday evening, April 4, "La Boheme" with Caruso; Wednesday matinee, April 5, "Carmen" with Farrar; Wednesday evening, April 5, "Tristan and Isolde" with Ullis and Kurt; Thursday evening, April 6, "Lulu" with Barrientos; Friday evening, April 7, "Aida" with Caruso; Saturday matinee, April 8, "Butterfly" with Farrar and Saturday evening, April 8, "Lohengrin."

The repertoire for the second week comprises Monday evening, first performance in Boston of Richard Strauss's comedy for music, "Der Rosenkavalier"; Tuesday evening, "Tosca" with Farrar; Wednesday matinee, "Rigoletto" with Caruso and Barrientos; Wednesday evening, "Trovatore"; Thursday evening, first performance in Boston of the Shakespearean opera "The Taming of the Shrew"; Friday evening, "Carmen" with Farrar; Saturday matinee, "Pagliacci" with Caruso, and "Hansel and Gretel"; Saturday evening, "Sonnambula" with Barrientos and the Ballet Divertissement.

The repertoire of the last week comprises Monday, first performance in Boston of Gluck's "Mme. Sans-Gene" with Farrar; Tuesday evening, Verdi's "The Masked Ball" with Caruso; Wednesday matinee, "Der Rosenkavalier"; Wednesday evening, "The Barber of Seville" with Barrientos and the Ballet Divertissement; Thursday evening, "Madama Butterfly" with Farrar; Friday afternoon at one o'clock special performance of "Parsifal"; Friday evening, "Martha" with Caruso; Saturday matinee, "Die Meistersinger"; and Saturday evening, "Aida."

Mail orders for any of these performances will be promptly filled. They should be addressed and check should be made payable to Charles A. Ellis, Boston Opera House.

Listed among the entries at present are employees from the Bureau of Engraving, Government Printing Office, Treasury Department, Census Department, Pension Department, Patent Department, and Bureau of Agriculture. It seems certain now that about 300 five-men teams will take part in the Tournament instead of 350 teams the number originally anticipated.

NEW FASHIONS

Concurrent issuances of smart frocks for afternoon and day wear, intended to be used with these new editions of millinery, are being offered in chiffon and silk combinations.

Taffeta's will swarm upon us in a month's time but the dress of the hour is made of satin and chiffon.

One of the newest of the new is a frock of black satin with a short, wide skirt and a close fitting bodice, offering short, flared sleeves and a low-cut round neck, with which a white mousseline de soie guimpes is worn.

The skirt is completely covered with a black chiffon overskirt, which actually appears an apron-like shape of an affair shirred over a blue satin ribbon band which ties around the waist and leaves carelessly knotted loops and ends to dangle where they list in perfectly good apron string style.

When it is understood that this chiffon overdress is slit up the back and left to swing freely and unattached to the skirt, the similarity it bears to an apron model will be convincing.

This adaptation of ideas which spring from forms which have no connection with fashions, is also evidenced in the blue taffeta model recently seen.

Fur turbans are good for skating wear.

Sport skirts are made of knitted fabrics.

Twilight colors for evening gowns are favored.

Pockets are still being used to some extent.

Collars with cape effects are novel and attractive.

All afternoon frocks are in gorgeous rich colorings.

Afternoon gowns have collars either high or low.

Round and melon shaped muffs are most prominent.

Very few trains are used, even for formal functions.

Tiny bunches of shaded ostrich tips are among the prettiest millinery touches.

Collars, even on day time frocks, are not all high, although a careless survey of the new models might leave one with that impression.

There are many neck arrangements high at back and sides but cut away in front, and here and there, though rarely a good looking model ever discards the shape of the neck.

THRILLING STORY OF ESCAPED SPY.

Augusta, Ga., March 20.—To be caught redhanded sending German military secrets to wireless from Antwerp to the British forces, condemned to death and kept in a dungeon twenty-one days only to escape a few hours before execution, were the experiences told by George F. McWilliams, former English marine, who has just arrived here in search of relatives.

"I was a British spy," said McWilliams, "and it had fallen to my lot to make observations in Antwerp. I communicated information to England by wireless telegraphy, having studied it aboard ship and it was because I was an operator that I was assigned to the particular task of observing the construction of guns at the gun works in Antwerp and reporting by wireless."

"I worked my wireless at night only and took the wires down in the day, so feeling as secluded a spot as possible. Finally I was caught at the work redhanded and in climbing down from my wireless perch at the command of the German soldiers I fell and broke my wrist."

"I was thrown into a dungeon and kept for twenty-one days and on the night before my execution escaped from the dungeon by removing a loose stone through which faint streaks of sunlight had come, the day before."

McWilliams has an uncle who formerly lived here. He intended to make his home with that relative but found he had moved away.

SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS BADLY BURNED IN MANCHESTER

CHILD LEFT ALONE PLAYS WITH LIVE COALS AND IS NOW AT HOSPITAL.

Manchester, March 20.—Natalie L. Roberts, a girl of six years residing with her parents at 182 Hall street, was terribly burned this afternoon, when her dress caught fire from hot coals with which she was playing. She was removed to the Sacred Heart hospital in the police ambulance after treatment by a doctor nearby.

The girl's mother had gone out to make some calls and the child amused herself with a poker. Her dress caught fire and she was burned from her waist to her head. If she has not inhaled the fumes there is a chance for her recovery, although her burns are deep and severe.

PAUL REVERE'S RIDE IS DONE BY MACHINERY NOW

THE 620 FROM HERE ON MONDAY ANNOUNCED THE OFFICIAL OPENING OF SPRING ALL THE WAY TO NEWBURY PORT.

Countrysides and hamlets, dozens of them, were jerked awake early Monday morning, when a mechanical Paul Revere tore screaming and clanging across the northeast shoulder, of Massachusetts, leaving a trail of steam questions, cusswords and crowing roosters.

Farmers and their wives who were already awake, first heard a faint scream. In the distance, an unaccustomed sound that grew and grew to a wailing shriek. They set down their coffee cups and looked at each other, then ran to the door. When they had identified the sound, but not the reason for its persistence, they decided there had been at least seven railroad wrecks somewhere in their vicinity.

"Astounded commuters" grouped at the railroad stations in the chilly gloom of the first go-to-work morning of the week were given something to talk about when the shriek bore down on them. It was exciting.

Somewhere just beyond North Hampton the fireman on the Boston & Maine 620 from here, due in Boston at 8:15, blew the whistle for a crossing. Something happened, probably the whistle valve was unseated, although neither Conductor Hobbs in charge of the train nor the official press agent of the B. & M. have put their O. K. on the theory. Anyway, the whistle refused to hush off and it couldn't be stopped. The Paul Revere stunt followed the iron horse bearing its screaming sleep-deprived all the way to Newburyport. There the offender was sidetracked to scream itself out to the disgust of the townsfolk, while a clumsy freight engine took up the burden, leading the commuters in Boston 30 minutes late. Stockholders who heard of the incident said the road could ill afford to waste so much steam.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic, vomiting, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 60-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Washington, D. C., March 20.—A very interesting publication has just been issued by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Department of Commerce, concerning its wire-draw operations in Alaskan waters.

The relation of this work to the important interests of Alaska, as represented by a commerce of $70,000,000 per year which is constantly increasing, is clearly shown. All commerce between Alaska and the West Coast and between the ports of Alaska is waterborne and many vessels are obliged to pass through the intricate system of narrow channels in Southeastern Alaska. These passages, which are usually deep depressions between high ridges, are apparently safe, but the appearance of security is deceiving on account of the existence of very sharp pinnacle rocks, rising, in many cases, from great depths, and of such small extent that the ordinary methods of hydrography fail to reveal them. One of these was found by the steamer State of California with a loss of 31 lives and $350,000.

Those who have not visited Alaska will get an excellent idea of what is meant by the term "pinnacle rock" from the illustrations in the pamphlet. Even without the wrecking of vessels it was easy to infer the existence of submerged pinnacles, but until the adoption of the wire drag, which has been developed on the Atlantic Coast, there has been no means of discovering them and placing them on the chart so that they can be avoided.

In adopting the wire drag for use in Alaska, many conditions peculiar to this region made the prosecution of the work a very different matter from similar work in other regions. The long distance between towns makes the subsisting of the party and the obtaining of fuel and supplies very much more serious in its effect on results than on the Atlantic coast.

The scenery of Alaska has been much admired by the tourist, but the very features that cause admiration, when continued below the surface, form the pinnacle rocks and other obstructions so dreaded by the navigator. The very uncertainty of the existence of these pinnacles, and the fact that they rise from great depths, makes it necessary to drag large areas in which no obstructions are found. Fortunately such work can be done rapidly by the use of a long drag, a drag 15,000 feet long having been used with the result that 20 square miles was dragged in a single day.

The finding of uncharted rocks is promptly reported to the Director of Coast Surveys at Seattle, Washington, who immediately informs all those concerned, pending the usual publication and charting of the shoal.

In one channel, out of 12 buoys now marking dangerous rocks, five have been placed on shoals found in the wire-draw work. Vessels often avoid uncharted shoals by sticking closely to some channel which they have previously traversed in safety. This is frequently impossible.

An excellent example of this relates to one of the great Alaska industries, the canning of salmon. The factories are placed with regard to the presence of the fish and may be in out of the way coves and harbors which the surveyor would consider of minor importance. As a result the largest vessels in the Alaskan trade may be obliged to enter a harbor that has been practically unsurveyed and jeopardize the lives and property of many who have no immediate interest in the locality. Consequently many of these small harbors must be dragged in addition to the main channels.

The various difficulties in carrying on the wire-draw work are brought out in detail and a method of analyzing the cost of the work as affected by these difficulties is explained.

The publication is accompanied by a chart of Southeastern Alaska which shows the important thorough routes and the progress that has been made in dragging them. The dangerous shoals indicated on the chart, that resulted from the wire-draw work, are shown so thickly that little imagination is required to realize that, until this work is completed, a voyage to Alaska is not quite in the same character as in a dredged channel.

This brings out very clearly the wisdom of allowing the obvious and necessary course of carrying on wire-draw work as rapidly as possible to safeguard those engaged in the long established industries of Alaska. The Alaska railroad cannot fully serve its purpose until it is possible to place ships of the highest class in the Alaska trade with the assurance that they will be safe from all but the customary dangers of the sea.

ORGANIZING PRISONERS IN UNITS FOR ROAD WORK IN CALIFORNIA.

Misdemeanant prisoners when working on the roads should be organized in unit squads, if the best results are to be obtained. This is the conclusion reached by James Leland Stamford after a nation-wide investigation of road work for misdemeanant prisoners conducted for the National Committee on Prisons and the Graduate Department of Highway Engineering of Columbia University.

In forty-four states, Mr. Stamford reports, county road work is carried on under the supervision of county commissioners; in other states it is under the control of the sheriff. These authorities are not trained for their work and the road work is costly and inefficient.

All counties carrying on road work should obtain the services of a county road engineer who is acceptable to the state road authorities and able to work in cooperation with them. The county road engineer should be a political employee, but thoroughly trained for his work. He should have control of all the road work whether convict or free labor is employed.

Where convicts are worked each camp should be in charge of a competent superintendent selected by the prison authorities. He should have complete charge of camp equipment, sanitation, and discipline, with power to send a man back to the jail for insubordination.

Each camp should be divided into unit-squads with a leader to each squad. The squads should be encouraged to elect their own leader from among the prisoners. Special training may be given the squad leaders, who can take the place of foremen or guards. Interest in the squad should be stimulated among the members, as loyalty to the squad will increase efficiency and prevent escapes.

The National Committee on Prisons sees in the unit squad a means of developing self-government and responsibility among the men. In the road camp, in state prisons self-government creates an excellent spirit among the men which leads to increased efficiency and effort to make good. It is hoped this spirit can be carried through the unit-squad to the misdemeanant gangs working on the roads, and that unit-squad organization will be generally adopted where short term prisoners are working upon the roads.

CALLS TRAINMEN UNFAIR

Managers of Eastern Railroads Demand Higher Wages.

New York, March 20.—The Conference Committee of Managers for the Eastern Railroads, of which Ellisha Lee is chairman, in a statement issued here today, "to the 300,000 stockholders of these companies" characterized the demands of the railroad trainmen for higher wages as unfair, and added that "the carriers cannot and should not shoulder this burden of an unwarranted increase of $150,000,000 in the wages of a small minority of their highest paid employees."

The payroll of the Eastern roads in 1914, it was pointed out, amounted to $635,000,000, of which $18,000,000 went to the trainmen.

"These employees, the highest paid in the service, are less than one-fifth of the army of railroad workers. They have taken the cream of the big wage advances of the past few years. If they force their demands on the carriers, by threat of a nation-wide strike surely the wages of the other four-fifths would require adjustment. Manifestly the resources of the railroads would not permit granting all employees the same proportionate increase."

POISONED CREAM PUFF VICTIM IS NOW PARALYZED

Providence, R. I., March.—Henry Cassavant, the second victim in the poisoned cream puff mystery at Woonsocket, has been brought to St. Joseph's Hospital in this city for a consultation of physicians. His limbs are paralyzed.

Armand Vadeboncoeur, the first victim of the cream puffs, died, Mrs. Hatfield E. Oakley of Woonsocket was indicted by the Grand Jury on March 16 for murder in the first degree in causing Vadeboncoeur's death.

Three cream puffs were sent by registered mail to Cassavant, who gave one to Vadeboncoeur his friend, and ate two himself. Vadeboncoeur died that night. While the overdose of two poisoned puffs reacted on Cassavant so as to save him from death, he has been in a critical condition ever since.

Mrs. Oakley is under indictment, also, for assault with intent to kill upon Cassavant, because the puffs were addressed to him.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys—Drink Plenty of water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

WHERE THE IMMIGRANTS GO

Washington, March 20.—One-third of the incoming immigrants from foreign countries, entering United States ports in January, 1915, settled in Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, California, New York and Pennsylvania. Immigration officers announced today that although the tide of immigration has fallen to a low ebb, the states mentioned continue to claim, as in the days before the European conflict, a proportionate bulk of the new arrivals in this country.

Out of a total of 17,293, New York added 4,937 to its population. Michigan was next with 4,337. Massachusetts secured 1,529, California 1,091 and Pennsylvania 1,000. California stands high in the list because the war has not affected Asiatic immigration.

Indicative of the many arrivals from the Orient, the figures for the six months ending December 31, show that a total of 19,847 entered at San Francisco and other Pacific ports. Out of a total of 164,155 entering in the six months period, 42,418 located in New York. Massachusetts claimed 15,019 and Michigan 13,719.

PETITION FOR SPUR TRACK TO FAIR GROUNDS

Fair Association Asks For Same on Sherburne Road.

The Southern New Hampshire Agricultural Association have petitioned the Boston and Maine management requesting the laying of a spur track from the main line on the Greenland road to the fair grounds on Sherburne road, a distance of about one quarter mile. What the railroad will do with such petition is a question, in view of the fact that it recently decided to discontinue the line from Portsmouth Plains to Greenland and are planning to remove all roadbed and electric equipment. However, the idea should have some consideration on the part of the Boston and Maine and the company would lose nothing by allowing that part of the line from the Plains to Sherburne Road to remain in place until a decision is reached in the matter.

The Boston and Maine would not be required to spend any large sum of money to put in the spur as part of the rails, wires, etc., which are to be taken out along the line between Greenland, Parade and Sherburne Road could be used in the construction of the spur track to the fair grounds.

A track to the fair grounds would be a great accommodation to the public and a big drawing card for the annual exhibition by the association.

Boston Firm Purchases 1400 Tons of Steel.

The Equitable Trust Company, owners of the paper mill at Freeman's Point are disposing of about 1400 tons of structural steel to the building firm of Smith and Leavitt of Boston and shipments of the material have already been started. The sale does not include any of the steel standing on the foundations, but some which has been unused and piled up alongside the railroad track for several years. A year ago this stock would bring nothing but junk money, but now owing to the advance of metal, the owners will realize quite a sum by such a sale. The steel will be used in building work by the purchasers.

THOSE ICY STEPS ON CERES STREET

It is about time that the snow was removed from the stone steps leading to the Ceres street ferry landing. Several persons have received bad falls at this place during the past few days. If the property owners do not remove the snow it seems up to the city to take a hand and make the thoroughfare safe for pedestrians. Can not something be done and at once?

SONG RECITAL AT ELIOT

The music loving people of Eliot will have a musical treat on Thursday evening, March 23, on the occasion of the song recital in which Miss Beatrice Elizabeth Hartford, soprano, will be heard in a most excellent program. Miss Hartford is a pupil of F. Morse Wemple, New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, and the people of the up river town will have the opportunity to hear the young lady at her best in some very appropriate selections, the work of noted composers.

Miss Florence C. Marshall, pianist, an accomplished musician in her line, will accompany Miss Hartford during the recital, which will take place in Grange Hall, Kennard's Corner. There will be dancing afterwards. A number of Portsmouth people are planning to attend.

COUNTRY CLUB ASSEMBLY HELD AT PIERCE HALL.

The second assembly of the Portsmouth Country Club for members of the club was held last evening at Pierce hall with 50 or more present. The evening was in charge of Mrs. Harry Harding and Mrs. Morgan Dain, who acted as a committee. During the evening refreshments were served, Andrew Jarvis catering. These assemblies have proved to be very enjoyable affairs to the members and another is planned for Monday evening, April 3rd with Mrs. Harry W. Peyser and Mrs. Ira A. Newell acting as the committee in charge.

Those enjoying sleighing parties at present would be perfectly willing to wait until next year even if they are getting a lot of fun out of them.
